

The illustration depicts a large, light-brown stone building with multiple windows and a central entrance, identified as The Brabazon. A large black and white checkered racing flag is draped across the top of the building. In the foreground, a red vintage double-decker bus is parked on a dirt path. The bus has a sign on its side that reads "DO NOT FAIL TO VISIT THE NATIONAL MOTOR MUSEUM AT BEAULIEU A FUN DAY OUT FOR ALL THE FAMILY" and "ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST COLLECTIONS OF MOTOR CARRIAGES". The bus is labeled "SHEPHERDS BUSH" and "LIVERPOOL ST." on its roof. A man in a brown jacket is driving the bus. To the right of the bus, a small orange car labeled "OUTSPAN" is parked. In the foreground, a man in a brown jacket is standing and looking towards the bus. A man in a brown suit is riding a motorcycle. The scene is set in a green field with a path leading to the building. There are trees and a blue sky with a few clouds and a small airplane in the distance. The bottom of the image features a large, colorful flower bed with white daisies, pink flowers, and yellow flowers.

Who was Lord Brabazon?

John Moore-Brabazon was born in 1884, just the right time in history to participate in the development of two new forms of transport made possible by the invention of the internal combustion engine.

As a Cambridge student, he had a holiday job working for Charles Rolls. Next he became an apprentice at Darracq in Paris and started racing, winning the 1907 Circuit des Ardennes in a Minerva. Aviation interested him even more and in 1909 he became the first Englishman to make an officially recognized aeroplane flight in Britain. As a leading proponent of motoring and flight, he contributed to my grandfather's magazine The Car Illustrated. He went on to have a remarkable career both as a politician and a sportsman. He excelled at tobogganing and, in 1955, won the Cresta Run Coronation Cup at the age of 71.

His links with my family were revived when my father asked him to become Patron of the Montagu Motor Museum which he opened in 1956. He became my Godfather in 1961 but died just three years later so, sadly, I have no recollection of him. I am delighted, however, that the Brabazon name lives on here in this restaurant.
